

About Us

The Soldier for Life Employer Outreach Office develops relationships with Employers through a team of dedicated professionals serving as the single point of contact for Employers – facilitating the connection between potential Employers, Outreach Assistance Stakeholders (Fusion Cell Members) from all components, and enables Soldiers to successfully transition from the Army to civilian life.

Our Focus:

- Establish a seamless, coordinated flow of transitioning Soldiers connecting with Employers and Employers having a value-added relationship with the Army.
- Share best practices
- Bring employer concerns back to the Army IOT adjust transition processes to better prepare Soldiers
- Encourage mentoring; resume & interview services to local installations, posts, bases, and communities.

Our Objectives:

- Provide a platform for professionals, policy-makers, and the social partners to exchange views on the national/regional transitioning situation and to share good practice (through panels and open discussions).
- Support events specifically designed for agencies, military senior leadership, businesses, and other community leaders to help raise awareness on the urgency of promoting the resources available to Service Member, Veteran, and Family population and to underline the urgency of that population's request/desire for decent employment options and resources.
- Support workshop and resource fairs specifically designed for job seekers: transitioning service members, veterans, guard and reservists, and military spouses and employers attending the hiring fair providing the platform for Service Members, Veterans, and Family Members hands-on interaction with the local/regional/national level resources and employment opportunities.
